

Start Youth Job Program In Ulster Town on July 1

Work on the initial development of a 60-acre tract of land along the Hudson River in the Town of Ulster will commence on July 1 when a state sponsored plan will get underway. The work will be done under the State Division of Youth program by 10 young men who will be paid at the state minimum wage for a 35-hour week. The program will continue for an eight weeks' period.

Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz (R), of Ulster has had meetings with Mrs. Fannie Lawson, a representative of the Division of Youth, Albany, to confer on the reimbursement plan. The program will be carried out under the State Home Town Beautification plan. Under the plan the 10 youths who are selected for the summer job will work at the town park area for the eight weeks' period, under the direction of the Park Commissioners to establish a picnic area, clean the waterfront and cut and clear brush from the area. There will be no cost to the town for the work.

First Developing Step
The Town of Ulster purchased the 60-acre tract of land off the Ulster Landing Road just south of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge some time ago with state assistance and this is the first step in developing the area as a town recreation center.

The Park Commissioners have held several meetings to make plans for the future development of the area.

Nick J. Valenzano, chairman of the Town Park Commission, stated that an area of the park will be open for limited use this year.

Young men who desire to participate in the state sponsored eight-weeks work program at the park area may submit applications to Supervisor Musialkiewicz, 35 Vincent Street from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. The state program is designed to give youths an opportunity to work for a couple of months during the summer school vacation.

N.Y. City Income Tax Given 2-Year Life Expectancy

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A city-income tax for New York City residents—which has not yet even received formal legislative endorsement — has been given only a two-year life expectancy.

The Legislature's most powerful Republican, Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, says that is the length of time that he is willing to let the tax stand.

After that, Brydges said Friday, he will seek changes based on a study to be conducted by the Joint Legislative Committee on Metropolitan and Regional Areas.

The Niagara Falls lawmaker, a key figure in hectic negotiations earlier this week that ended with the income-tax plan, said he would give the municipal-income tax a two-year test because of New York City's "immediate financial crisis."

Work This Fall

Brydges added that the study committee would begin work this fall and would carry on its deliberations "in an atmosphere as free as possible from political pressures and political deadlines."

The negotiation organized by Gov. Rockefeller resulted in a tax program for New York City that called for a payroll tax on commuters and a city-income levy on residents. The total package, including other sources is designed to bring the city about $38.5 million in additional revenue this year.

Reserve Decision on Trio Charged With Robbery

Decision was reserved Friday by County Judge Raymond J. Mino as to whether oral and written statements made by three Poughkeepsie men in regard to their participation in an armed robbery last December 1, were given after they had been fully advised as to their constitutional rights.

Counsel for Thurman Lee, James Samuel Woods and Harold Delano Lee, contested the manner in which the statements were taken and sought to prevent their use on trial of the first degree robbery action, on the grounds the men had not been properly advised as to their rights prior to the making of both oral and written statements. They argued that the provisions of the recent U. S.

Intensify Search In Space Travel

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Hoping for clear sailing in the Apollo man-to-the-moon project, the national space agency plans to intensify its search into some of the mysteries of space travel as a result of new problem areas uncovered by troubled Gemini 9.

Three two-man Gemini flights remain, all to include rendezvous with an orbiting satellite and space walks expected to provide vital experience necessary before men are committed to a lunar voyage.

"We have to recognize that we did not achieve all of our major objectives on Gemini 9," said Dr. Robert C. Seamans, space agency deputy director at the Gemini 9 news conference Friday. "We cannot score this flight a 100 per cent success."

Seamans revealed that he had ordered a complete investigation into plans for Gemini 10, 11 and 12, declaring: "We are going to use these three flights to maximum advantage to get all the data we can preliminary to the Apollo programs."

Officials rounded out the list of spacemen assigned Gemini tasks Friday by naming Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. to fly Gemini 12, the last in the program.

Gemini 9's pilots, Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan, told of their troubles and successes in space at the same conference.

Had Troubles
The two astronauts, whose flight spanned three days in space, including a record 2-hour, 7-minute walk in space by Cernan, indeed had their troubles.

First, their rendezvous target's protective shroud failed to separate in orbit, leaving the vehicle looking like an "angry alligator" and incapable of serving as a link-up satellite.

With the failure to link to the target, known as an augmented target docking adapter, Gemini 9 lost one of its major objectives. Later, it was revealed that ground crews failed to correctly attach the shroud.

Seamans said that in the future efforts will be made to "run whatever tests are necessary."

Analyze Facets of Constitutional Convention and Delegate's Battle

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

Voters at the polls everywhere in the State of New York last year made the final decision. They approved at long last the Constitutional Convention that had been postponed, delayed and shuffled into the background for far too many years.

Almost everyone agreed the voters had shown uncommon good sense in insisting that New York's antiquated, outmoded constitution be updated. What could be more desirable than for the Empire State among states to call for a general review and revision of the fundamental law of the state? Initially, it seemed the very height of inspiration.

But the phantasmagoria that ensued was a trite study in old fashioned politics. When the convention was announced for 1967 and as the time drew near to name delegates to rewrite the wordy old document, there seemed to be an overabundance or underabundance of delegate material—depending on how you looked at it. The overabundance

O'Connor To Run UR Appraisal

Will Study Land In Uptown Project

Kingston's Urban Renewal Agency has selected Edward C. O'Connor of the real estate firm of O'Connor-Kershaw-Sanglyn, of 241 Wall Street to complete the Agency's second acquisition appraisal on properties to be acquired in connection with the UR Uptown Project, it was announced today.

UR Director Eric Hemphill told The Freeman that the local real estate office was among seven representatives who submitted proposals for the work earlier this month. He said that the proposals were reviewed the first week of the month, with the decision being arrived at by the end of this week.

The appraisals are for 137 properties in the Uptown Project which are to be acquired and demolished.

Has 120 Days

Hemphill pointed out that the selected appraiser has 120 days in which to complete the appraisals of the properties, which bring the conclusion date up to early October. The appraisal work calls for inspection of the properties and usually involves detailed work. Hemphill urged the property-owners involved in the appraisal project to cooperate with the firm doing the appraising in order to facilitate the Uptown Project. He said that the appraisers will become identified with the UR Agency.

The UR Agency already has the first acquisition completed. This was done during the planning stages of the project and the appraisal work was done by Walter Donnaruma.

Hemphill said that O'Connor was the only local representative to submit proposals for the appraisal project. He said that other proposals were received from representatives of firms in New York City, Albany and Scarsdale in New York State. (Continued on Page 5, Col. 5)

Beach Opens This Morning

Kingston Point Beach opened at 10:30 a. m. today for a 10-week program, it was announced by Emile Taiclet, chairman of the newly formed Municipal Recreation Commission.

He said that the Commission acted on several aspects of the Beach program at its first regularly convened meeting as a constituted commission.

Taiclet said that Kingston Point Beach will be open daily from 10:30 a. m. until 7:30 p. m. with accredited lifeguards on duty at all times during which the beach is open.

To Issue Decals

The Commission also decided, he said, that the parking fee charged at the beach would be $3 for a season decal, which entitles the owner to park in the designated lot for the entire season. Residents of the City of Kingston only may purchase the decals. The daily parking fee will be 75 cents on week days and $1 on Saturday and Sunday. "The Commission feels that these fees are very reasonable since they are the only charge at Kingston Point Beach and are considerably lower than several places where the facilities are not up to that of the Kingston Beach," the Commission chairman said.

Progress Reported

Taiclet said that under the direction of the Commission and Mayor Raymond Garraghan, (Continued on Page 5, Col. 5)

A meeting of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors Special Committee on Reapportionment has been called for Monday, June 27, at 8 p. m. by Chairman Peter Savago (R), New Paltz. Members of the committee will meet to discuss the recent court decision which directs that Ulster County Board of Supervisors take immediate action toward complying with the "one person, one vote" requirement by December 31, 1966. In the event the board does not come up with a reapportionment plan in accordance with the court order by that time, the court will proceed to act.

Meanwhile the court has directed that a monthly report be submitted to the court on progress taken in compliance with the order to reapportion. The decision was handed down recently by Supreme Court Justice T. Paul Kane. (Continued on Page 5, Col. 5)

Saigon Makes Several Changes To Help Economy

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The government announced today sweeping economic measures, including a 50 per cent devaluation of the Vietnamese piaster and salary increases to 800,000 state employees.

The drastic measures, described as a "major surgery for a serious disease," were aimed at halting the skyrocketing inflation threatening the economic life of this embattled nation.

They are expected to have strong influences on the country's unstable market and the government braced for a difficult period that may range from two to three months.

Upstate Medicos Plan New Group

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Delegates to a meeting next Thursday of the seventh and eighth district units of the New York State Medical Society are expected to propose a new society for upstate physicians only. They were urged to submit the proposal by most of some 300 Rochester area doctors meeting here Friday to discuss their attack on the state's new medical assistance law.

The physicians contend the existing state organization is dominated by New York City doctors who have not tried hard enough to push changes in the eligibility requirements of the controversial law.

They also expressed disapproval of the state group's leadership for its initial endorsement of the bill, claiming the action was taken without prior consultation of upstate county medical societies.

The bill approved by the Legislature and signed into law by Gov. Rockefeller at the end of April. The law provides financial assistance to persons unable to meet medical expenses, limiting the aid to those who fall under specified wage limits.

Planned for Middletown

Announce New Rehabilitation Services at State Hospital

The president of the Ulster County Association for Mental Health called attention today to a recent decision by the State Department of Mental Hygiene for a new plan in rehabilitation services at Middletown State Hospital, where a new Rehabilitation Center is to be constructed.

William H. Van Benschoten explained that the Center in the Middletown hospital which serves Ulster County, will be the first of a series to be built at state hospitals throughout the state.

Through the Center's programs, he said, patients will have an opportunity to develop qualities necessary for independent social living; initiative and a sense of purposefulness, good grooming

Vocational Aid

Similarly, he said, the vocational rehabilitation program will provide evaluation, training or retraining and education necessary for employment. Specific programs will include pre-vocational testing and instruction, skill training in manual arts, business practices and other employment skills through assignment to services and operations available at the hospital.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Troops and riot police, reportedly with orders to shoot, today sealed off Saigon's Buddhist Institute after a man in an antigovernment mob shot a policeman to death.

A second policeman was attacked by the mob of about 150 persons and reported dragged bleeding into the institute's compound. A later report said he had not been dragged in, or that he may have been released.

The police were said to have been given orders to shoot at the legs of persons trying to flee from the compound, where the man who shot the policeman was said to have fled.

In the war against the Viet Cong, American B52 bombers rounded out one year of raids against Communist targets in Viet Nam and marked the anniversary with two big attacks against the Communist guerrillas.

Ground fighting dwindled to only minor allied contact with the Viet Cong.

One wave of the Guam-based B52s hit a Viet Cong troop concentration 35 miles southwest of Da Nang.

Hammer Camps

Another formation of the eight-engine bombers hammered two Viet Cong base camps 75 miles northwest of Saigon. The target area was in War Zone C near the Cambodian border, where a Communist troop stronghold.

Police officials reported that a 16-year-old Buddhist girl, who set herself afire in an antigovernment protest Friday night, died today.

The girl, Dao Thi Tuyet, set her clothing ablaze in the compound of the Buddhist Institute. Her death brought to 10 the number of self-immolations since May 29.

The policeman was shot to death with his own revolver and a police captain said the man who did it was seen running into the institute. Police were demanding that monks hand him over.

The captain, Phan Huu Tran, said police knew the slayer.

Plainclothesmen seized four persons, one of them wearing monk's robes, and took them away in a truck. One resisted and policemen were seen beating him with rifle butts.

Police said the slain policeman was on his way to work when he was attacked. He lived in the area.

Although the institute, about two miles from downtown Saigon, has been the center of agitation against the government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, no monks in robes were seen in the crowd that attacked the policeman.

Phone Service Halted in Hudson By Cable Break

Telephone service was restored early today to about 6,500 subscribers in the City of Hudson in Columbia County and to about 700 customers in the Town of Athens in Greene County, after a cable break halted service Friday night on both sides of the Hudson River. The break was reportedly in a submarine cable.

According to an Associated Press report, a New York Telephone Company spokesman said that Athens residents lost all telephone communication shortly after 5 p. m. Two telephones were set up for emergency calls.

Cause of the break was not determined, the AP said, the NYTelco spokesman said it was under investigation.

In Hudson, meanwhile, local calls were not affected but long-distance service was restricted until calls could be re-routed.

Hudson telephones returned to normal about midnight, and complete service was returned to Athens about 5 a. m. today, the spokesman said. Emergency communications were maintained from Athens to other points through special lines.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODIE ISHMAEL

SERMONS IN STONE

In Pietrasanta, a town of 10,000 on the west coast of Italy, lives a quiet-spoken, square-shouldered priest affectionately called "Padre Thomas."

He's the Rev. Thomas McGlynn, O.P., who has been in this center of marble sculpture for the past 10 years. In addition to his priestly vocation, sculpture has been his second calling since he was a small boy in California.

Father McGlynn has special permission from his superior in the Dominican Order of Preachers to carry on his sculpture in Italy. One of his outstanding monuments is the 15 1/2-ft. marble statue of "Our Lady of Fatima," finished in 1958. It has a prominent place over the door of the Basilica at Fatima, Portugal. Its inspiration was his 1947 meeting with Carmelite Sister Lucy, the survivor of three children who witnessed apparitions. Father McGlynn wrote a book, "The Vision of Fatima," then set about planning the statue that was completed ten years later. Other works of the hard-working sculptor include one of Martin De Porres, which led to great U.S. interest in this saint. In Ipswich, Mass., is his statue of Blessed Julie Billiart. Father McGlynn has finished many portrait busts of contemporary church personalities including two Popes, Pius XII and Paul VI.

As a priest in Pietrasanta, Father McGlynn is the chaplain at a local prison. He is also chaplain to the cloistered Dominican nuns in nearby Pisa. His full days as priest and artist sum up the philosophy of his religious order. His message of faith and inspiration in God can be seen and felt through his lasting endeavors in marble and bronze.

Moderator Named By Presbyterians

The United Presbyterian Synod of New York, when it convenes its three-day 109th annual meeting at Keuka College, Keuka Park, June 21, will have the Rev. P. Arthur Brindisi of Westminster Church, Utica, as its uncontested candidate to succeed the Rev. Merle S. Irwin of Poughkeepsie as moderator. His installation will take place that night at 8:30.

Ordained in 1942
The son of an East Orange, N. J., blast-furnace operator, he worked his way through Houghton College and Princeton Theological Seminary. Since his ordination to the Presbyterian ministry in 1942, he had devoted his pastoral career to building up "unpromising" churches, — in Belvidere, N. J., and Goshen and Utica.

Reared a Roman Catholic, he has consistently sought closer ecumenical ties. A visit last year to the Holy Land and attendance at the Vatican Council added to his zeal for Christian unity. The trip was a gift by his congregation to Brindisi and his wife "in recognition of a decade of daring leadership."

Appoints Endicott Pastor

Brindisi, who has appointed as his vice moderator the Rev. Henry Clay Banks of Endicott, has served as moderator of Utica Presbytery, as Grand Chaplain of New York Masonry and as President of the Utica Council of Churches.

He and Mrs. Brindisi, the former Viola Allen of Edgely, Pa., have two children, Mrs. Gary Gildersleeve of Utica and Arthur Allen who is preparing for the ministry at Colgate University.

Assisting in the service will be members of the God and Country — God and Community class.

The program has been arranged by Lance Lasher, superintendent of the Church School, and Robert Vanderlaan, seminary associate of the church.

Adventist Church Names New Leader

DETROIT (AP) — A soft-spoken, reflective man who sees an expanding role for the church in the modern world is the new leader of the 1.6-million-member Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Robert H. Pierson, 55, previously head of Adventist missions in Africa, was elected world president of the church Friday by delegates to the 50th World Conference of Adventists. "I was surprised. Naturally, I was surprised," Pierson said after his election. "When a responsibility like this is thrust upon one all of a sudden, it makes one feel a great dependence upon the Lord."

Pierson succeeds Reuben R. Figuhr, world president for 12 years whose main principles — "evangelization, publishing and medical and educational programs around the world" — Pierson says he plans to follow. Pierson, now a resident of Salisbury, Rhodesia, was born in Brooklyn, Iowa, the son of now-deceased Adventist parents. His father was president of a bank.

He went to high school near Ocala, Fla., where he met and married a Kansas-born girl named Dollis. She wasn't born an Adventist, said Pierson, "but she's one now."

After their marriage, they entered Southern Missionary College in Tennessee. Last May, Pierson received a doctoral degree from "our university" — Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Mich.

Pierson, author of 13 religious books and numerous articles in Adventist publications, has two sons. John Duane, 34, is a doctor currently doing research for a Morrisstown, N.J., pharmaceutical firm. Robert, 29, works at Solusi College, an Adventist school in Rhodesia.

Will Rebuild English Church In Honor of Winston Churchill

FULTON, Mo. (AP) — Since the 12th century, a Church of St. Mary Aldermanbury has stood at the junction of Love Lane and Aldermanbury Street in London, resting near the corner of the wall which had defended the city in Roman times.

The church was rebuilt after the Great Fire of 1666 and damaged in the German incendiary bombing in World War II in 1941.

Last year the old church was torn down, piece by piece. Then it was shipped here to be rebuilt on the campus of Westminster College as a memorial to the late Sir Winston Churchill who, in 1946, appeared with President Harry S. Truman and made his famous "Iron Curtain" speech of March 5, 1946 in which he predicted the cold war between the West and the Soviet Union.

The church, which replaced an even earlier one built in 12th century, was designed by Sir Christopher Wren who designed many of Britain's greatest 17th century churches and buildings. Churchill described the difficult project as an "imaginative concept."

In officially launching a fund drive to bring the church here, President Johnson said "it demonstrates in an unmistakable way the deep affection, esteem and respect which the great man has in this country."

1½ Million Is Goal

College officials estimate that more than 18,000 persons contributed $1,141,000 for the project. The goal is $1½ million.

Permission to move the church to the campus of this Presbyterian college for men was granted by Anglican

Methodists Plan Special Seminar, Lottery Campaign

PENN YAN, N. Y. (AP) — Central New York Methodist leaders have proposed a seminar among clergy and laymen for a study of the problems of the "inner city."

Delegates to the annual meeting of the churches' Central New York Conference called for such a program Friday, suggesting it study "the emergence of new power structures in our society as they relate to poverty, racial minorities and disinherited persons."

In other issues presented in a report by the conference Board of Christian Social Concerns, the delegates acted to:

—ask defeat of the proposed state lottery amendment, on the ballot in November and call for repeal of state laws permitting bingo games sponsored by churches and other groups;

—defeat, 99-90, after long debate, a proposed statement favoring resumption of trade and other exchanges with Red China. They also turned down a resolution introduced from the meeting floor which called for resistance to communist aggression. The delegates said they objected to the wording of the measure.

Bishop W. McFerrin Stowe of Topeka, Kan., urged the church to follow the example of early Methodism and go "where the need is" to minister to the "new works in which we live."

supervision, getting along with fellow employees, and promptness, will be emphasized.

Patients will also be able to improve their educational backgrounds through upgraded classes leading to high school equivalency and tutorial remedial work in mathematics and language skills. Advanced academic study will be available to patients through participation in community night adult education programs, and in some cases, enrollment in community colleges.

Commissioner Comments
Commenting on the proposed center, Dr. Alan D. Miller, Commissioner of Mental Hygiene for the State of New York, said: "Rehabilitation is an aspect of the mental hospital program that is certain to receive increased emphasis in the future. It is not enough for us simply to diagnose and treat illnesses. We must prepare the patient to return to the community and be an economically productive and self-sufficient member of society. The rehabilitation philosophy being developed by the Department will enable us to provide rehabilitative services on a much broader scale than has been possible before. Although the Rehabilitation Center will be the primary center for rehabilitation programs, many of the services will be available in the residential units for patients who will not be able to participate at the Center."

The commissioner further pointed out that all services to patients in the State's institutions are considered segments of a comprehensive and continuous community program, responsibility for which is shared with other agencies in the community. "This joint responsibility will be extremely important in the rehabilitation services," Dr. Miller continued, "as the Department plans to coordinate, with services available in the community such as public secondary schools, New York State Employment Service and the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation of the State Education Department."

Campus Location

The Rehabilitation Center to be constructed on the Middletown State Hospital campus will house the core activities of the occupational and recreation therapy units, and the vocational facilities of the hospital. The plan includes a 400-seat auditorium with a multi-purpose stage to accommodate dramatic presentations, musical performances and chapel services, gymnasium, library, workshops, a home arts center, indoor and outdoor swimming pools, dining and lounge areas, bowling alleys, community store, beauty and barber shops and offices and conference rooms for group therapy and counseling. Adjacent to the center will be space for a variety of outdoor recreational activities.

The Center is designed by Helge Westermann-Richard Miller Associates, Architects, of New York City.

Jeep Is Burned
Earlier, the crowd which had been on the street all day, burned an American Jeep.

As the antigovernment rioting went into its sixth straight day, the regime announced that the curfew in the capital will be shortened by three hours today and Sunday to permit observance of Armed Forces Day.

A big parade of all branches of the South Vietnamese and allied forces is scheduled for Sunday. Air force units also will fly over the city.

The holiday will also mark the first anniversary of the military government of Premier Ky.

In Hue, the center of antigovernment agitation in the north, Premier Ky's troops took control of the Dieu De Buddhist pagoda.

Simultaneously, another battalion of 500 loyal Vietnamese marines arrived to bolster the government forces to 2,800 in the city of 106,000 people.

The Dieu De pagoda has been the rallying point of a series of demonstrations by Buddhists.

involved, what then should one think of these symptoms of unrelenting devotion to duty?

Those who will eventually reach the apogee of delegate, should they be elected at the general election to be held next November 8, will be paid and paid exceptionally well for casting a giant shadow over the laws of the future. The State is a bank-rolling delegate with a $10,000 annual salary and, for good measure, is tossing in up to $2,500 per year for expenses. Many, who consistently criticize governmental units and agencies for spending too much too loosely, are outspokenly referring to this job of convention delegate as one of the prize political plums of the day. Even those who are disinclined to share the plum tree quite so violently as the agreement that $12,500 a year is piddling sum; is actually an amount on which a man could maintain the good life—whether the money is augmented privately or personally (and it usually is) or not.

Bill Could Be Mammoth

The bill for the convention, if it should continue on for fiscal year after fiscal year, would be mammoth. Voters will elect three delegates for each of the 57 Senate Districts of the State and 15 delegates-at-large, a total membership of 186 delegates. There is always the possibility, of course, that the Legislature will call a halt sometime in the distant future if the convention drags on indefinitely long. These august souls could set a deadline, after which no more money would be appropriated but no one actually considers this possibility at the moment. What is important for the purposes of delegates now in the race is that no such deadline currently exists. None has been set as yet—and, for that matter, none may ever be set.

When money is involved, the wheels of the Legislature often grind slowly. It has already been pointed out by some that with Primary Day just around the corner, Election Day coming up shortly and Convention Day in the not too distant future, the lax and lackadaisical Legislature has still to appropriate money for the Temporary Commission, whose job it is to set up an agenda for the Constitutional Convention.

Ponder Imponderables

This constitutional renaissance, then, poses potential imponderables—and nowhere is the X-factor of hopeful delegate more immeasurable than in this area and this Senate District. Although any citizen of the United States who is over 21 years of age and a resident of the State, except a sheriff, is eligible to be a Constitutional delegate, there is a dearth of independent candidates locally. The names of those proposed at county conventions—and those who have elected to take the fight to the primaries—mostly read like the roster of known politicians or party workers they have been for years.

Wide interest in the convention is evident throughout the state, but nowhere is it more apparent than right here in Ulster County. Kingston figured prominently in the very first constitution and with the old Senate House here to remind residents of their historic heritage, few are likely to forget the role the city once played or to demean the role delegates from this area will be called upon to play again.

Since 1777 the State of New York has had only eight conventions. The first one met in 1776 in White Plains, moving seven times during the year to avoid oncoming and fast-moving British redcoats. That first constitution was finally completed and adopted in Kingston. It was not a lengthy document; contained only 6,600 words. With the passing decades, succeeding conventions have managed to make the constitution one of the most unwieldy in the country. It is now more than seven times as long as the first; has been amended 160 times; and has hardly been updated at all since 1894.

Delegates next year are in a position to draft a completely new constitution or simply revise and amend the present document. The goals and the grails will depend on the caliber of the men. For this reason, many will want to know who they are.

Three Out of Four

What, then, of retiring State Senator R. Watson Pomeroy, attorneys H. Clark Bell, Louis P. Francello and S. James Matthews have in common, for instance? They are all Republicans, colleagues at-large who, with only brief hours left before Primary Day, June 28, are fighting tooth and nail for the opportunity to become delegates to the Constitutional Convention from this 38th District. Of the four, only three can win next Tuesday.

Nor has the possibility of earning $12,500 for an undetermined number of years cowed or deterred Democratic candidates Robert M. Mandia, Louise Puetz and Glenn C. Van Bramer from running as delegates. They, at least, face no competition on Primary Day. The lady in this trio, however, did not receive the endorsement of the Liberal Party. Although Liberals lend support to Mandia and Van Bramer, they will carry the name of Bernard Sperling on the ballot next November.

Getting back to Pomeroy, Francello and Bell, they face another Primary Day fight Tuesday for the privilege of securing the designation of the Conservative Party. Two others have joined them for the Primary balloting: Harold Clark and Alexander W. Salay.

The field is wide open since even members of the State Legislature and persons holding other public or judicial office, whether such office be constitutional or statutory, are also eligible. There are no additional qualifications for district delegates other than those listed above.

Bloc Voting Planned

Delegates-at-large will be voted for in a bloc of 15 but provisions must be made so that a voter may vote for one or more of the 15 as in the case of presidential electors. These delegates are not expected to be drawn from the ranks of college professors or the public-at-large. In all probability, these positions will go to judges who serve on the higher courts of the state and to attorneys of renown—meaning their incomes, too, will be supplemented considerably.

The Constitutional Convention will have the same power as the Senate and Assembly over its members and the compensation of every delegate is even the same as that paid annually to members of the Assembly. To carry the resemblance even further, the reimbursement for traveling expenses while the convention is in session is the same as that received by a member of the Assembly during a legislative session.

An expression of benignity has, so far, cloaked the push for delegate jobs in this area. Experience and background of the candidates are being emphasized, along with love of service to their fellow men. But hardened observers of the political trails hereabouts and those who have traveled the same treadmill of routes before point out that patronage seemed to play at least some part in the selection of some candidates. The plum, if such it is, went more than once to men who were defeated or bypassed for other positions in conventions this year or in years past. Many view their designation as a sort of sop or second best offer of office.

In the long run, it may turn out to be the best position of all, for the convention delegate will never have to face the uncertainty of selection two years hence—and he may well have his job longer than the man who beat him out for Senator, Assemblyman or what-have-you at the conventions.

Another Poser Noted

There are still other who have viewed the regular release of non-partisan State League of Women Voters, aimed at educating the public on the convention, as a phenomenon of a different sort. Initial releases mostly urged conventions and mostly political parties to choose wise, dedicated community-conscious men for the job. Once the conventions had met and publicly announced the chosen few, the ladies' releases took another tack; subtly changed in tone. Again and again, League statements pointed up the methods by which an independent could become a candidate.

Since the League is non-partisan, its statements must, of necessity, always be carefully worded and couched in jargon that takes neither side. Even so, some felt there was a message to be read in this clarification for independents and they chose to interpret this message as dissatisfaction with those who had been named to run. So far, locally at least, no independent has risen to the bait by filing a petition.

Whatever the dynamics involved, New York citizens will get what they vote for and, anyway you shake it, the price will be high for improving a constitution that long ago was bypassed by the people for whom it was originally written.

Debatable or Not?

The Convention could well be one of the most stirring events in the history of the state. Still, some, it is debatable whether we are heading in the right direction by putting a price tag on delegates—a tag that seems to have eliminated the scholars, historians and intelligentsia and encouraged ward-heeling party workers and members of the bar, who, as sociologists are beginning to point out are more and more taking over as the kings of society.

Deft hands molded the convention but not more than one average, everyday citizen is now becoming concerned that it will all end up in the power base of politics and political ambitions . . . as so many good things, with all the right and proper motives, quite often seem to do these days.

Jr., Gregory Peck and rock 'n' roll singer James Brown.

"If you know these people you had better come and see them Saturday night," King said.

Several of the younger people chanted, "I'm going to catch a bus down there."

Earlier, the rally heard Hosea Williams, director of voter registration and political education for King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference, urge them to "get that vote."

"If we can die in Viet Nam, we can die in Mississippi," Williams said. "I'm sorry I don't have but one life to give for this damnable place, Mississippi."

Said King: "You all know as well as I do an individual takes his life in his own hands when he asserts his rights in Mississippi."

Kings has said he expects 25,000 people in Jackson June 26 for a final march on the state capitol.

Reserve Decision

Clintondale on December 1, 1965. The three defendants are charged with first degree robbery, second degree assault and petit larceny. It is alleged that Fred Woolsey of Milton was held up and robbed.

Both Lisman and Spreen testified that they had informed defendants that they were entitled to advice of counsel, need not make any statement if they so desired and that any statements made could be used against them on trial.

Investigator Spreen testified that he had talked to Woods on December 7, at the Dutchess County sheriff's office and that after informing Woods of his rights Woods had waived his right to an attorney and said he would make a statement. Woods then told of the affair at the liquor store, stating that he had driven the car but had not entered the store. The Ohioville store was the second spot considered. The first place was passed up when a crowd appeared to be in the store.

Against Court Edict

Counsel at the conclusion of the testimony argued that the advice given by the police officials had not met the "guide lines" set down by the U. S. Supreme Court decision just handed down. They argued that it was necessary not only to advise a defendant prior to any questioning but that in the event he could not employ counsel he was entitled to have counsel assigned and be present before any statement was given.

It was argued by defense counsel that the advice regarding counsel given by the officers did not specifically and intelligently inform defendants of their right to have counsel assigned.

Harold Delano Lee was represented by assigned counsel, Attorney Ward Ingalsbe; Thurman Lee by Francis Martocci, and Woods by George Beck.

All three cases are on the present County Court criminal calendar. Judge Mino reserved decision on the question of whether the statements were made voluntarily and were in compliance with the "guide lines" recently set down by the U. S. Supreme Court and whether the statements or confessions, may be offered as evidence on trial of the cases.

Defendants were remanded to jail.

N.Y. City Income

ing Assembly spokesman, Minority Leader Perry Duryea Jr. had opposed the city-income tax on several grounds. Both resisted efforts to allow an income-level that would include commuters.

The payroll tax on commuters agreed upon at the three-day leaders' conference here, was already available to the city, although some changes will be made in the law.

Brydges said in his statement Friday that a graduated income tax could, in the opinion of economists, "kill the city, if given permanence, by hastening the departure of all but the lower-income families."

Brydges said the revenue program worked out during the negotiations was the best possible "under the circumstances" but added it "was a crisis package, worked out under crisis pressure."

The Legislature is expected to act on the proposals next week.

Three of the directors are newcomers to the Board: Mrs. Porter, who served as the respiratory disease survey registration chairman last fall, Mrs. Mollenhauer, an Association Patient Service worker and Christman Seal and program chairman; and Roosa returns after several years of membership in the Association.

Dr. Schwartz noted that "in our 57 years of dedication to the hard work of tuberculosis-respiratory disease and better community health, the service and education that we have striven to provide have been stimulated in a great measure by a dedicated, concerned Board of Directors and a strong, capable volunteer program force."

relationship" in spite of the program. They said they would continue to press for lowering of income ceilings to those "who indicate medical indigency."

They expressed concern that the government would not pay "reasonable and customary fees" to doctors treating medical aid patients and that the program would "fill our offices with patients who don't need to be there."

Fees Next Battle

Dr. William B. Forsyth, deputy director of the Monroe County Welfare Department, predicted the "next battleground" for doctors fighting the law would be in fee schedules to be provided under the bill.

He said he understood the state was considering a fee schedule which would provide $6.50 for an office call, $8 for a house call and $10 for a complete physical examination.

Forsyth said there was considerable difference between "medical indigency" and "indigency for other purposes."

Cernan's walk in space had to be cut a half hour short because the faceplate fogged so badly that he could not even see himself in a mirror attached to the rear of the spacecraft.

The new champion space walker said the trouble developed as strolling in orbit proved to be more work than anticipated and his suit's ventilation system was not adequate to remove body moisture. Cernan also discovered difficulty in maneuvering with a 25-foot umbilical cord feeding him oxygen from the spacecraft. The cord kept getting in the way, he said.

Changes Possible

Seamans said that results of the investigation into upcoming flights could lead to some changes in original mission objectives. He noted that Aldrin might take his space walk with a rocket pack on his back without a tether line attaching him to the spacecraft as a precaution.

Gemini 12, scheduled in late October or early November, is to rendezvous with an Agena target rocket, after which Aldrin will experiment with the maneuvering pack. Cernan had intended to use a similar rocket unit but scrubbed the attempt because his visor fogged.

Gemini 10 is scheduled for launch July 18 with Navy Cmdr. John W. Young and Air Force Maj. Michael Collins aboard. Gemini 11, to be flown by Navy Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr., and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon Jr., will follow with a similar three-day flight in September.

Beach Opens

work has been progressing at the beach to improve the entire area for the past couple of weeks. Washed sand has been trucked in and after having been screened will be used to cover the entire sand area of the beach. Before this screened sand can be put on a particular section the water chestnuts, more commonly called "cow heads" by beach patrons, must be raked out of the sand since they have very sharp pointy ends and can pierce the skin of the unprotected foot. A central section of the beach has already been screened and the washed sand spread over this section. The Recreation Dept. hopes to have the entire beach screened and spread by the July 4th weekend.

The Department through Mayor Garraghan and the Commission has other plans for the area which are very gradually being instituted. Overgrown areas have been cleared to facilitate better parking with the overall objective of increasing the picnic facilities to almost double what they are today. Plans for the very near future include a small boat launching area at the extreme end of the beach and an area where the ever increasing boat trade can move their boats.

The actual swimming area will remain constant for it is felt by the Commission that the present area is as large as any in the Hudson Valley and is quite adequate to service the swimming and bathing patrons. Floats will not be in the water for this first weekend since they have about outlived their usefulness and plans are currently underway to replace them with a more desirable and practical float. Swimming lessons will be offered this summer with a further announcement on this to be released next week.

Starts Next Week

O'Connor told The Freeman this morning that he hoped to begin the appraisal work in about a week or two.

The appraiser follows a prescribed format as approved by the U. R. Agency and the Federal Government and Department of Housing and Urban Development.

After the second acquisition appraisal, the U. R. Agency reviews the two appraisals and approves purchase prices for the individual properties and with Federal concurrence with the Agency's suggested price. The procedure then is open to negotiations for the properties to be purchased first, Hemphill said.

Board Committee Seeks More Info

Supervisor Joseph Martorana (R-Plattekill), chairman of the Legislative and Rules Committee of the County Board of Supervisors said today that the committee at a meeting Friday night felt they should be more informed on reapportionment before making any definite recommendations.

The committee discussed steps to be taken to comply with a Supreme Court order calling for county reapportionment under the one-person, one vote principle. Martorana said that the committee also considered a county executive plan and in connection with reapportionment the group discussed weighted voting, redistricting and a county legislative plan and appointment of a county charter commission.

Some concern was expressed about the effect of reapportionment particularly in rural towns and larger cities. The committee suggested a joint meeting with the special committee of the county board on reapportionment before any final action is recommended.

County Attorney Abram Molyneux reviewed the court ruling at last night's meeting and explained its legal ramifications.

Martorana noted that much work is involved in a complete reorganization of county government including reapportionment and that more thorough study of any plan is important.

Further meetings are planned before any recommendations will be framed for submission to the Board of Supervisors, Martorana said.

Other members of the Legislative and Rules Committee attending the meeting were Supervisors Franklin S. Kelder, Rochester; Douglas V. Dye, Kingston; Charles E. Penney, Shawangunk; Daniel Smith, city, and Supervisor Fallon.

in about 18 months and take four years to complete.

Proxmire challenged the view that additional space is needed. He was among members of a committee, who questioned Capitol Architect J. George Stewart about the plan shortly after it was approved.

Stewart, also a member of the commission, told the subcommittee the proposed extension is the most economical way to shore up the wall. The extension will add about 4½ acres of space and increase the size of the Capitol by 25 per cent, he said.

Proxmire said the project should be given "the most searching and critical scrutiny," adding that "if Congress proceeds on this pitifully inadequate piece it will deserve the ringing public denunciation for waste and extravagance this proposal is sure to bring."

Noted Horsewoman Leaves Woodstock Area; Will Open Stone Ridge Riding School

MRS. ROBERT JACOBSON riding Bagatelle. A hunter, the horse is owned by Mrs. J. C. van Rijn of Woodstock. Mrs. Jacobson's new riding school will be called "Cross View Farm."

Pat Jacobson, noted Horsewoman and Instructor of English Riding in the Woodstock area for more than six years, has announced she is moving her riding school to the Stone Ridge area. The establishment will consist of a number of hunters and saddle horses, a large ring, jumping facilities and new trails. There will be accommodations for training and boarding hunters and jumpers also.

Mrs. Jacobson will continue teaching all ages and levels of pupils. Among the younger riders this summer will be campers from the Creative Arts Camp in Woodstock and Camp To-Le-Do in High Falls.

Mrs. Jacobson began her training at an early age under the famous author and riding teacher Margaret Cabell Self,

Later she rode with Otto Heckroth, manager of Ox Ridge Hunt Club in Darien, Conn.

Former U. S. Equestrian Team Coach, Gordon Wright furthered Mrs. Jacobson's riding education. Mr. Wright was a leading rider and teacher in this country for many years.

Mrs. Jacobson rounded out her equestrian education by studying with two recent Olympic Team members: Walter Staley and George Morris. Both won many medals for this country in international competition and are considered this country's leading horsemen.

The Cross View Farm, as the new school will be named, will officially open July 1. It is located on the Krumville Road in Krippelbush. Mrs. Jacobson will reside with her husband Robert and their daughter Jacqueline.

Doing The Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

CIGARS OFFENSIVE TO HOSTESS, SMOKERS SHOULD ASK PERMISSION

Dear Mrs. Post: I would like to take this opportunity to tell you what I consider a most serious sin against good taste. The habit of smoking cigars in your hostess's home, when you are aware she and her husband are non-smokers. I have informed the wives of my husband's business associates in the most tactful way possible, that cigars make me ill. Their odor is quite long-lasting and seems to cling to my rugs and draperies for some time. Maybe I am just being oversensitive about it, but when a guest is so inconsiderate, I would like to have my say about "poor manners." — Adele Rossler.

Dear Mrs. Rossler: Thank you for bringing up this particular sin against good taste. In my article about smoking I talked mainly about cigarettes and left cigar smokers (who are often much worse offenders) to carry on! I agree with you—because cigar smoke is actually nauseating to many people, every man should ask permission of the women present before he lights up.

Phone Hogs—Hang Up!

Dear Mrs. Post: Our telephone number is a party line and when one of the parties talks for a long time, it prevents people from calling us or our calling out. Even when we finally break in and tell a certain party we would like to use the phone, she says, "You will just have to wait." What can we do to make these telephone hogs hang up?—Ada C. Raak.

Dear Mrs. Raak: This is a situation that can hardly be handled politely. After a reasonable length of time—ten minutes at the very most—pick up the phone and say politely but firmly, you have to make an important call. Do this every minute or two until the talker gives up. If the situation becomes too impossible, call the telephone company and ask for their assistance.

Gifts Required for Newlyweds?

Dear Mrs. Post: In our community, when a man marries an out-of-town girl and they come to his hometown to live, the parents of the man often give a reception for the newlyweds to introduce the bride to her new friends-to-be. Does an invitation to the reception require a gift if one has not previously received an invitation to the wedding? If so, to whom is the gift sent?—Ellen P.

Dear Ellen: Since the reception given when the newlyweds return to the groom's hometown is in the nature of an introduction rather than a wedding reception, a gift is not required. However, if the groom or his family are close friends of yours, you will probably wish to send the bride and groom a present. Since you will not meet the bride until she is already married, the present may be sent to Mr. and Mrs. at their new address.

The booklet, "Table Rules of Importance" describes how to eat spaghetti as well as other difficult foods. If you would like a copy, send 1 cent in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper. (A Bell-McClure Syndicate Feature)

Murder Witness Charges 2 Other Men Shot Negro

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — One of three white men arrested on murder charges has testified he saw the other two shoot an elderly Negro to death with a rifle and a shotgun.

The three are charged in the June 10 slaying of Ben Chester White, 65, whose body was found two days later in nearby Pretty Creek, riddled by 17 rifle slugs. He was also hit in the head by a shotgun blast.

The testimony came Friday from James L. Jones, 56, of Natchez in preliminary hearings for Claude Fuller, 46, of Natchez and Ernest Avants, 35, of Washington, Miss.

Jones said Fuller shot White with the rifle and directed Avants to shoot him with the shotgun.

Jones, who previously had pleaded guilty, testified he drove the car the night of June 10, and that afterwards Fuller told him to burn his new car because it was blood-spattered. Fuller and Avants pleaded innocent before County Judge Robert A. Bonds, who ordered them held without bond for action of the Adams County grand jury.

Fuller and Avants were identified earlier this year by the House Committee on Un-American Activities as past or present members of either the United Klans of America or the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, a Mississippi Klan.

White's body, Jones testified, was dumped into the creek at Kingston, a community about 10 miles southeast of Natchez.

2 Motorists Face Driving Charges

Two motorists were arrested by Highland State Police on charges of driving motor vehicles while intoxicated.

Sergeant Edward Whalen said Trooper Edward Pulver cited Dorothy Harris, 44, of Union Center Road, Town of Ulster on a drunken driving charge after he stopped her on Route 9W at Port Ewen shortly before midnight.

The woman was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Allan Dargie, Town of Esopus, and held in $100 bail pending a hearing at a later date.

Troopers John Crodelle and Jerry Henne arrested Joseph Schnadel, 29, of West New York, N. J., at 12:10 a. m. today after they stopped him on Route 9W near Highland. Schnadel was ordered held in $200 bail pending a hearing Tuesday, June 21 before Justice of the Peace Linn Baker, Town of Lloyd. He was booked on a drunken driving charge.

Lynda Bird Due To Visit Spain

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson, is expected here early next week on a summer vacation trip and Spanish and U. S. officials alike are puzzled over how to handle a strong-minded daughter of the President.

She seemingly wants her travels to be as unnoticed and as private as those of an ordinary American tourist.

The main burden of solving the problem falls on U. S. Ambassador Angier Biddle Duke and his wife, Robin, official hosts of Lynda Bird and her one-time college schoolmate, Susan Schein of New York City.

Ambassador Duke has had some experience of the problem. He had a long tour as State Department chief of protocol under Presidents John F. Kennedy and Johnson and it included a trip to the coronation of King Constantine of Greece when Lynda Johnson was a member of the official U. S. delegation.

A tentative program for the visit of Lynda, 22, has been prepared. Whether it becomes final will depend on her.

Negro Teens Plan March on Capital

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Two Negro teen-agers say they plan to march more than 500 miles to Washington in one week to next month to rally support for American policy in Viet Nam.

Willie Hunter, 17, says he hopes many young people will join him and Arthur Williams, 18, in the hike from the north Georgia border to the nation's capital.

Hunter told newsmen Friday that he and Williams, representing the National Youth Assembly for Peace, would leave the last week in July, expecting to reach Washington by the first of August.

The youth said the proposed march is to promote peace and understanding and to demonstrate support for the United States' role in the Viet Nam conflict.

SAUGERTIES NEWS Williams Essay Traces Our Flag

Michael Williams, eighth grade student at Saugerties Junior High School, was recently named one of two winners in the American Flag Essay Contest, sponsored in the Saugerties Central Schools System, by the Saugerties Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution. The DAR honored young Williams and co-winner Nancy Osenni with an award and certificate.

His winning Flag Day essay, entitled "What the Flag of the United States of America Means to Me," follows:

"HATS OFF"
Along the street there comes A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums,
A flash of color beneath the sky; "Hats off!"

The flag is passing by." This passage by H. H. Bennett reflects how deeply he loves the flag of the United States of America, and the thrill he receives each time he sees it. As an American, and as a person, I echo his sentiment. To me the flag stands for all the United States has been through, and will go through in the future. It stands for what we have accomplished as a people, and what we hope to accomplish for the benefit of the world.

Our flag is old, as old as our country. Since the first time some unknown man raised his eyes and said, "I am an American, and a free citizen of my free country," he could raise them to his flag, borne by the wind, corroborating his statement. The flag officially came into being, however, while the Revolutionary War was being waged. On January 4, 1776, General George Washington wrote to Colonel Joseph Reed, "On Monday, January 2, 1776, we hoisted the Union flag, in compliment to the United Colonies." This flag is called the Grand Union or Cambridge flag. It consisted of seven red and six white stripes with a Union Jack on a blue canton in the upper left-hand corner. The reason for the Union Jack being on the flag is that, at this time, we were fighting a war of protest. The Union Jack signified that the colonies were still loyal to the Crown.

At this time I would like to point out that Betsy Ross probably did not design our United States flag. This is a misconception. Careful examination, however, of records shows that she was paid by the government for making flags as early as May, 1777. By 1777, of course, the Colonies had declared themselves free. No more did they wish to honor England with their flag! Therefore a resolution was passed on June 14, 1777 by the Continental Congress stating that—"The Flag of the United States be thirteen stripes alternating red and white, that the Union be thirteen states, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation." A constellation, a mighty and beautiful thing, oft gazed at with awe. It was prophetic since the small and weak United States was to become the most wonderful nation on earth.

In March, 1791 and June, 1792 Vermont and Kentucky were admitted to the Union. The young country was now faced with the dilemma of how to change the flag to indicate the admission of these two states. The Senate took up the matter and decreed:

"That from and after the day of May 1793, the flag of the United States be 15 stripes and 15 stars—white on a field of blue." The first flag of this sort was made by Mary Young Pitchesgill, a woman from Baltimore, Md. This was the flag that was flying above Fort McHenry on the night of September 13-14, 1814. That night, the British attacked Baltimore harbor and one of the greatest naval battles of all time ensued. The scene is described in Francis Scott Key's immortal "Star Spangled Banner." Think of it! The British were bombarding the fort. In the pitch of night, the outcome was uncertain. Then in the rockets red glare, at Fort McHenry, it was seen that our flag was still there.

In 1817, five more states were admitted to the Union. It was soon apparent that the addition of a stripe for each new state would be impractical. Therefore, in 1818 an act was passed to restore the original thirteen stripes. Only a new star was to be added for each new state.

Our flag has not changed since then, except for adding of thirty states. Like its appearance, its meaning has not changed. It is a symbol of America's hopes and dreams, her experiences, and her youth. I sometimes wish I could talk to the flag. This is what I would say: "Keep waving, oh flag. You grew up with this country, and may you live as long as this country lives. I know what you mean to me. You mean 'AMERICA'."

Cuba Will Elect New Union Bosses

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuba will hold elections June 20 to elect new union leaders throughout the country, Havana radio reported Friday night.

Rules of the election forbid voters to elect those who have been members of the bourgeois political parties or labor unions before the days of Prime Minister Fidel Castro, the broadcast said.

Dear Abby . . .

How Do You 'Shop' for a Father?

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorcee with a 13-year-old son. This lad has delivered me an ultimatum. He is to have a "father" of his own by next Fathers and Sons dinner at the "Y." I have tried to assume him that I've been looking, but haven't found one yet. He has threatened to get his own, and believe me, Abby, if you could see some of the playmates he brings home, you would believe my concern.

When I say I have been looking, I am not joking. I have joined the church choir. Parents Without Partners, Girl Scouts (leader), and have even volunteered to chaperone teen dances hoping to find an eligible male my age.

I have even gone to some of the better bars and lounges thinking I might meet a nice, lone-some guy who wants a ready-made family. No dice. There IS one young man, however. He's my age. He doesn't drink and doesn't date. (He's shy.) I think I can wrangle a date with him. Should I go after him (subtly) or should I be honest and tell him what I have in mind for him?

"LOOKING" DEAR LOOKING: If you TELL him what you have "in mind," you are out of yours. Now you deliver your son an ultimatum. Tell him you are not about to sit across the breakfast table for the rest of your life with a hastily grabbed off character just so HE can go to the next Fathers and Sons dinner at the "Y."

DEAR ABBY: A good-looking woman, who doesn't have such a hot reputation, lives near me. Last week I saw one of my friends in the market, and she said, "I saw Milton (that's my husband) driving down the street with Bobbi (that's the woman with the not-so-hot reputation) the other day." I laughed it off.

When Milton got home that night I asked him how come he was riding around with Bobbie in his car. He said she was walking toward home, so he gave her a ride. When I asked him why he didn't tell me about it, he said he forgot. Do you think he could really forget? Or should I check with Bobbi to see what her story is?

Castro Gagged By Soviet Union Analysts Declare

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Washington analysts believe the Soviet Union may have ordered Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro to stop talking and take a back seat in his country's affairs.

Whether he has been stripped of power, the analysts say, remains to be seen.

The State Department took public notice Thursday of reports that Castro's regime faces "growing popular dissatisfaction." Press officer Robert McCloskey also noted that "it is a fact that Castro uncharacteristically has not been in the foreground of events since May 1."

The Cuban Prime Minister was reported Friday to have concluded an inspection trip to one of the provinces.

Analysts here are basing the theory that Moscow may have gagged Castro on persistent reports that the Soviet Union has found some of his recent activities very troublesome.

Earlier this year Castro engaged in a prolonged feud with Yugoslavia, a nation that has shown signs of independence from the Communist bloc. The Castro regime's outburst against Yugoslavia came as the Kremlin appeared to be making a concerted effort to avoid further breaches among bloc nations in light of its continuing battle with Communist China.

Only last month the Soviet Union signed a trade treaty for the exchange of $2.6 billion worth of goods with Yugoslavia through 1970.

Visiting Romania and Poland both have given indications lately that they would like closer ties with the West, particularly in trade. And Premier Chou En-lai of Red China now is visiting Romania.

Thus the Soviet Union, weary of prolonged aid to Communist Cuba and disturbed by its worsening economy, may have decided to clamp down on Castro to avoid the possibility of his stirring more rifts.

Some Cuban experts also say that Castro's blast at Yugoslavia may have been really aimed at Moscow, which the prime minister couldn't mention by name because the Soviet Union is keeping his regime afloat with an estimated $1 million in aid a day.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, June 18, the 169th day of 1966. There are 196 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1812, Congress declared war on Great Britain as a result of a long-standing controversy over arbitrary British interference with American ships on the high seas.

On this date:

In 1815, Napoleon was defeated in the Battle of Waterloo.

In 1895, the Great Northern Railroad was opened for traffic.

In 1940, Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini met in Munich to draft terms for a French armistice.

In 1942, Winston Churchill arrived in the United States for a series of talks with President Franklin D. Roosevelt about the war.

In 1946, President Harry S. Truman, authorized improvements in medical care for veterans.

Ten years ago — Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov, during a visit to Egypt, offered Egyptian President Nasser a Soviet loan for almost the entire amount of money needed for the proposed Aswan High Dam on the Nile River.

Five years ago — A Strasburg-to-Paris express train derailed and 24 passengers were killed and more than 100 others injured.

One year ago — An Air Force Titan 3 rocket—the most powerful booster at that time—was launched from Cape Kennedy, Fla. It successfully put into orbit both its 8,300-pound final stage and a record 21,000-pound dummy payload.

Bank Is Robbed

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP) — Bank manager John Eiters had just finished reading an FBI pamphlet with instructions on what to do during a bank robbery when two men entered.

"This is a holdup," the armed pair said. They fled with $8,230 after making Eiters and nine other bank employees and customers lie on the floor.

"It happened so fast I didn't have time to trip an alarm," Eiters said.

DEPUTY SHERIFFS DON NEW UNIFORM — Deputy Sheriffs of Ulster County who formerly wore the dark blue uniform and cap similar to Kingston City policemen, have been attired in a new distinctive uniform and the old blue cap has been replaced by a broad brimmed "Stetson" similar to those worn by State Police. The uniforms are lighter blue, the color which Governor Rockefeller has suggested be universal throughout the state. The trousers have a black piping down the outer-seam and a blue military-style jacket and black tie completes the new uniform. A colorful "sheriff" patch on the left shoulder and a "Sam Brown" belt with revolver holster gives a distinctive military

Triple Squeeze Leads to Slam

By JACOBY & SON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
In our column we have occasionally reviewed hands played by the late George Reith, one of the few older generation auction players who was able to become as great at contract as in the earlier game.

His oldest son, Rear Adm. George Reith, U.S.N., retired, writes us occasionally. Today he comments on our hand of April 30. When played some 30 years ago each declarer in a team played at six spades. South started ace of hearts, ace of diamonds, king of diamonds and came to a halt when West trumped the king. One West led the queen of hearts, whereupon his opponent made the rest of the tricks by means of a three-suit squeeze. The other West shifted to a club, broke up the squeeze and set the contract.

George points out that there is a way to make seven against that original heart lead. Of course, it does require knowledge of the location of all the cards but such an interesting play is worth repeating the hand.

South wins the heart lead and plays a spade to dummy's queen.

Then he plays his ace and king of diamonds, ruffs a diamond with dummy's deuce of trumps, ruffs back to his hand with a heart and runs off all his trumps. This play leads to the same squeeze that developed when West ruffed the diamond king and led a second heart.

On the last trump lead West must hold on to the jack of hearts and can't keep his king of clubs guarded. Then the ten of hearts is thrown from dummy so that dummy retains the ace and jack of clubs. Now East must unguard his queen of clubs to hang on to a diamond.
"Welcome aboard, Admiral!"

hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Here's a tip for those who freeze vegetables. And it uses your nylon net again!

Whenever vegetables are ready to be blanched, cut some two-foot squares of white nylon net. Tie or roll and wire each batch of vegetables in a piece of it.

Have one square for each blanching so you can blanch the vegetables, take them out of the boiling water and leave them rolled in the same hunk of nylon net.

These nylon net squares may be washed and used over and over again.

Esther Grissom

Dear Gal:

For those of you who carry white cotton gloves (or even kid, for that matter), and want them to be spotless when you arrive on the scene: Carry them back-to-back with the thumbs sticking out, and the top sides will be clean when you arrive.

Nothing looks worse than to see a woman put on beautiful white gloves that have streaks of soil that show on the back of them.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I had a problem of too much hair conditioner in one place on my hair when I distributed it with my hands.

Now I rub a small amount of conditioner on the bristles of my hair brush, touch the brush to my hair here and there then brush away.

It distributes the cream very evenly, down into my hair, and I get my hair brushed at the same time.

Linda

Dear Heloise:

Let's make those paper place mats serve triple duty. Besides wiping off a damp table, they are very good for wrapping scraps in, and you don't mess up the garbage can.

Janice Borchert

Dear Heloise:

Each time I wash my apothecary jars, and then put in my instant tea or coffee, they always get smeared again. The condensation just melts the tea or coffee and makes another mess to clean.

How can I get these perfectly dry so I can put dehydrated items into them without making a mess?

Joan Berry

Dear Joan:

When I wash mine, I dry them the best I can with a paper napkin.

Then I turn the jar upside down, and put it (along with the lid) on the top shelf in my oven with just the pilot light on. After about two hours the jars and lids are completely dry, and have no moisture in them.

If you have the time, you could place a paper napkin in them, after drying them thoroughly, and leave it three or four days so the napkin will absorb the moisture. But who has the time when we need our jars?

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Don't throw away your terry cloth robes.

They make lovely towels and wash cloths.

Dolores Bisby

Dear Heloise:

Did you know that by covering a wooden cigar box with some pretty adhesive-backed paper, one can make a very useful jewelry box for boys or girls?

I covered a cigar box with a gray marble-effect on the outside and red on the inside.

It is so pretty and now my boys have a place to drop their things so they can find them again.

Kingston Lions Club Hears Talk On OEO Project

Bernard Kramer, a field representative for the State Office of Economic Opportunity, was the guest speaker at a recent Kingston Lions Club meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Kramer spoke of the various functions of the OEO. He said he works with local officials on research to eliminate the causes of future poverty, the main causes being illiteracy, unemployment, poor health, and poor housing.

"Education is the immediate need for young people," he said, "and the Job Corps satisfies that need in two ways, teaching and employment."

He spoke of the VISTA program which uses volunteers who live in the poverty areas. He noted the Community Action program as being devised to eradicate low income problems with a program tailored to each area.

He noted that the local welfare Department has similar programs to reduce the relief rolls.

Set Inquiry To Look Into Fatal Collision

NEW YORK (AP) — A Coast Guard board of inquiry will convene Monday to study the still mysterious cause of Thursday's flaming collision between two tankers in New York harbor.

The known death toll remained at 20 today, after a search of the burned hulk of the British tanker Alva Cape yielded no bodies. Twelve crewmen are listed as missing.

Of the 71 survivors aboard the two tankers and two escorting tugs which also caught fire, all but 21 had been released from hospitals by Friday night. One remained in critical condition.

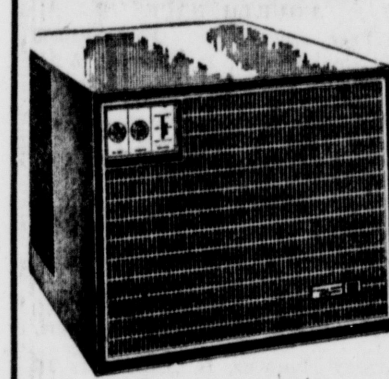

The Alva Cape, carrying more than four million gallons of volatile naphtha, collided in the Kill Van Kull channel with the Texaco Massachusetts, an American freighter heading empty to the Gulf of Mexico.

The collision was followed by an explosion and fire which sent flames 100 feet into the air in the 2,000-foot-wide channel between New Jersey and Staten Island.

Although the cause of the fire remained to be determined by the Coast Guard investigation, survivors said it apparently resulted when naphtha, a petroleum distillate, leaked from the damaged Alva Cape and washed over the engine of its tug.

The disaster was the worst in the harbor since 50 died in a 1960 fire aboard the aircraft carrier Constitution while it was under construction in the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Troopers Stage Raids on Upstate Gambling Houses

AMSTERDAM, N. Y. (AP) — Nine persons have pleaded guilty and four others face additional court hearings as a result of State Police raids on alleged gambling spots in this city.

The troopers, aided by city police, arrested 12 men and a woman Friday in the raids at 10 places in this Mohawk Valley city.

Nine persons pleaded guilty to misdemeanor charges of possession of gambling materials. They are scheduled to be sentenced Tuesday in City Court. Two others pleaded innocent to like charges and were freed on bail pending hearings next week.

Dominic Argesta, 53, and Victor Cisaratti, 44, both of Amsterdam, were charged with maintaining a policy business—a felony charge. They were freed on $2,000 bail each.

Argesta was ordered to appear for a preliminary hearing in City Court June 23. A preliminary hearing for Cisaratti was set for June 27.

The raids began shortly after noon. State Police said they had been investigating the alleged gambling for two months.

Papermakers End 44-Day Long Strike

OGDENSBURG, N.Y. (AP) — Employees of the Diamond National Corp. here have approved a two-year contract, signaling an end to a 44-day-long strike.

Members of Local 502, United Papermakers and Paperworkers, AFL-CIO, voted unanimously Friday night to accept the company's latest proposal, which, a union spokesman said, called for an increase of 19 cents an hour over the two years.

Fringe benefits amounting to about 2 cents an hour were also included, the source said.

About 365 employees were idled when the strike began May 5. The plant produces paper products.

Meredith Resumes March on Wednesday

NEW YORK (AP) — James H. Meredith, still recovering from gunshot wounds suffered June 6, says he will resume his Mississippi march next Wednesday "whether I am strong enough or not."

Meredith was shot 12 days ago during his march to encourage Negroes to forget their fears and register to vote.

Earlier he had said he wanted to resume the march Monday. He said Friday that a cold had prevented rapid recovery from his shotgun wounds.

Upstater Is Killed In Crash, Youth Held

LINDLEY, N.Y. (AP) — Thomas A. Bellows, 34, of Knoxville, Pa., was struck and killed by an automobile early today on Route 15, south of Corning, and an 18-year-old man was arrested in the death.

State Police said Bellows had stopped to investigate a defective muffler when he was hit by a car driven by Jonathan Olin, 18, of Osceola, Pa.

A passenger in the Bellows car, Norman Flint, also of Knoxville, was admitted to Corning Hospital with abdominal injuries suffered in the crash. Olin was arraigned before Peace Justice Elroy Young of Lindley on charges of driving while intoxicated and attempting to leave the scene of an accident.

New York and Pennsylvania State Police blocked Route 15 at the Pennsylvania line, where, they said, Olin was arrested.

Seaway Laborers Win Fast 20 PC Pay Hike

OTTAWA (AP) — Canadian Seaway workers will receive an immediate 20 per cent increase in salary, retroactive to Jan. 1, according to reports here.

A reliable source said that the increase this year, and a 10 per cent boost next year, were part of the settlement that averted a strike by the Canadian Seaway workers that had been scheduled for Friday.

Average wages and fringe benefits under the new plan will amount to $3.21-an-hour by next year, compared with $2.36-an-hour under the old wage scale, the source said.

Space Firm Has Second Strike in Past Two Weeks

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Bell Aerosystems Co. plants near Niagara Falls were struck today, for the second time in less than two weeks, as the company and two United Auto Workers locals failed to reach a new contract agreement.

The walkout by Locals 501 and 516 of the United Auto Workers (AFL-CIO) began at midnight.

Advice to Students

LONG BEACH — Howard J. Samuels, 46-year-old candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, urged college students today to rally support for his proposal for a State Institute of Political Education—"a political M.I.T. to bridge the thinking and experience of the academic world to the world of the practicing professional politician." Samuels, a businessman and engineer, urged support of his plan at the Campaign Conference of the New York State Young Democrats in the Lida Beach Hotel in Long Beach (Nassau County), L. I. Samuels, who lives in the Finger Lakes community of Canandaigua with his wife and eight children, is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

It involved about 1,800 employees of two Bell plants in nearby Wheatfield and Porter, which employs some 2,200.

Union and company negotiators continued sessions with federal mediators into the early morning hours. Another meeting was set for 10 a.m. today.

"This is a useless strike," said a Bell vice president, Peter J. Wacks. He said the company had offered an economic package totaling 64 cents, spread over a three-year contract period.

Wacks termed the offer "one of the highest, if not the highest, in the aerospace industry," but union officials disputed the estimated value.

Harold C. Troldi, UAW sub-regional director, termed the strike "most regrettable," said the company's final offer "was not sufficient for the union to accept."

Both sides said they would continue talks.

Work to Continue
The strike was not expected to have a major effect on week-end plant operations because only about 300 employees work, on an overtime basis, Saturdays and Sundays.

Bell was struck June 6 by members of another union, Local 205 of the American Federation of Technical Engineers. The union represents 435 workmen.
The technicians returned to work Monday, agreeing to stay on the job while discussions continued in their dispute over pension provisions in a current contract.
The area Bell plants are involved in production and development of fuels for the Minuteman II Missile and parts for helicopters used by the military.

Ostrom and .650 BA Due at Dietz Tonight

Billy (The Kid) Ostrom, the Poughkeepsie baseball legend, has promised to unveil his famous "left hand knuckle ball" for at least three innings when he leads the Poughkeepsie All Stars against the Kingston Braves in tonight's baseball opener at Dietz Stadium.

Ostrom also carts a .650 batting average into the stadium, having gone "4 for 4" in the Interstate League last Sunday.

Joe Pepitone, New York Yankee first baseman, is scheduled to make a personal appearance, prior to the 8:15 game time.

Manager Dick Bartsch has nominated Ron Thomas of Wagner College as the starting pitcher. The All Stars will call on veteran Russ Ruge.

Ostrom plans 3-inning stints for Ruge, Don Decker and himself.

Tresvik Fans 17 In Dodger Win

A nine-run rally in the top of the sixth enabled the Dodgers to edge Port Ewen Fire Company, 22-18, in the Town of Esopus Legion Little League. The losers scored five runs in their half of the sixth.

Kim Tresvik struck out 17 batters and collaborated with Kevin Johnson on an 8-hitter. Winners had 12 off Rolf Koola and Pete Beisel.

Phil Beisel stroked four singles. Cliff Barringer and Kevin Johnson clubbed a double and two singles each. Frank Carey had a single-double combination; Hayes a double and Kim Tresvik three singles.

Annual Classic Slated June 26

Four local speedboats have been entered in the annual Hudson River Marathon race from Albany to Edgewater, N. J. Sun-June 26.

Competing in Class E will be veteran Bob Millette in a 13' 6" craft. Millette's partner has not been named. Warren Spinnenweber and John Sherlock will race in a 15' 6" Class 1 speedster.

In Class J, Gus Stopski will race with a partner to be named at a later date in a 16-foot boat. Frank Giordano will compete in a 17-footer in Class H. His partner is to be determined at a later date.

Under race rules, each craft must carry a two-man crew.

The local entries will join severe competition in their classes and the overall field has been served notice that this year's marathon will not be an "All-Eastern" affair. Entries have been received from eight leading Midwestern outboard motor pilots, including John Kier of Medway, Ohio, winner of the recent nine-hour Orange Bowl Marathon at Miami.

Russ Van DeWal, chairman of the marathon said additional entries are expected from a host of other drivers from the South and Midwest before

He — I don't like to complain but my paycheck is five dollars short.

Him — Yeah, but we overpaid you ten dollars last month.

He — An occasional mistake I can overlook but not two in a row!

Have you heard about the fellow whose wife was so ugly he never left her at home ... he couldn't stand to kiss her goodbye!

Jack — Did you take her home after the show?

Jerry — No, my wife was there.

There isn't much to see in a small town but what you hear makes up for it.

She — Stop.

He — I won't.

She (sighing with relief) — Well, at least I did my duty.

Any serious writer on military affairs who does not lose at least one friend a month should reconsider his position.

Peggy — Last night I was kissed 20 times in 20 minutes.

Betty — By the same man?

Peggy — No. He was a changed man after the first kiss.

Wouldn't it be great to retire and not tell your wife.

Why We Say--

"CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME"

FROM GREEKS: The expression "Charity Begins At Home" was originated by the Greek pastoral poet, Theocritus (310-265 B.C.). His idea was that Greece should make itself great and forget about helping the people it conquered.

A Texan walked into the bar of a New York night club, saw a customer lying helpless on the floor, and pointing to him, said: Texan — Give me some of that.

Rep. Stanley L. Greigg (Dem., Ia.) has introduced a bill requiring railroad cars to bear reflective markings that would glow brightly in headlight beams.

Young Lady — I suppose you've been in the Navy so long you're accustomed to sea legs.

Sailor — Honest, lady, I wasn't even looking.

... the only time liquor makes a man go straight is when the road curves.

That laughter costs too much which is purchased by the sacrifice of decency.

2 Woman Are Hurt In Rt. 9W Mishap

Two Pennsylvania women were injured Friday in a two-car collision on Broadway near West Stout Avenue, Port Ewen, according to Highland State Trooper Harry Foster.
Cars involved were driven by Ruth Ann Carr, 29, Easton, Pa., and J. J. Maccaline, 31, of 31 Crane Street, city. Trooper Foster said the woman was driving south and Maccaline was pulling out of West Stout Avenue when the vehicles collided. Maccaline was cited for failure to yield the right of way. The summons is returnable Tuesday before Justice of the Peace John O. Beaver, Town of Esopus.

Mrs. Sarah W. Kidder, 56, of Cannonsburg, Pa., a passenger in the Carr car sustained a possible fractured nose. She was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance. Mrs. Carr received bruises of the right shoulder.

City Court Cases

Harold A. Tubby, 46, of 365 First Avenue, paid a $25 fine today in City Court when he admitted a charge of violation of a city ordinance involving dogs. He had been cited earlier for permitting a dog to run loose.

In other cases before City Judge Hubert A. Richer, three motorists paid a total of $60 in fines when they admitted separate traffic charges.

Robert Hill, 29, of 212 Hasbrouck Avenue, was fined $35 for being an unlicensed operator. Calvin G. Craig, 21, of Cottekill, was fined $15 for failure to keep right. Wilbur T. Delaney Jr., 21, of 7 Cedar Street, was fined $10 for failure to keep right. The last two motorists were cited by Patrolmen Curtis VanDeMark and Raymond Wells.

A third-degree assault brought by Marion Castle against her husband, James F. Castle, 43, of 102 McEntee St., was withdrawn. Also withdrawn was a disorderly conduct charge brought by Patrolman VanDeMark against John Wolfell, 29, of 29 Staples St.

Passenger Injured

A woman passenger was slightly injured in a two-car collision Friday night at Flatbush Avenue and Farrelly Street.

Police said that Mrs. Netia Weiss, 50, of Box 167, Kingston, RD 1, said she would see her doctor for a slight cut to the lower right leg. They said that she was a passenger in a car operated by Charles Weiss, 23, of the same address, which was in collision with a vehicle driven by Floyd L. Finch, 38, of 44 Foxhall Avenue.

Gallo Sends Letter, Wants Some Answers

Alderman T. Robert Gallo (D-9th Ward) insisted today that he wasn't getting any answers to his specific questions on the status of Urban Renewal in the city.

He told The Freeman that in view of this, he sent a letter to Frank Reis, Urban Renewal Agency chairman, "with the hope that the questions that have been posed by myself will be answered for the taxpayers of Kingston, either by yourself or someone from the UR Agency."

Gallo reiterated in his letter to Reis, specific questions which he said were posed to UR Director Eric Hemphill last December. "No answers have been forthcoming from him or the staff as of this date," Alderman Gallo said, adding that "I again posed the same questions at the June 7, 1966 meeting of the Common Council. No answers yet!"

Gallo said that, "When Urban Renewal first started here in Kingston, I can vividly recall the statement that there were to be no secrets (kept) from anyone, or the Common Council, at any time. I believe that this is part of the cooperation agreement between the city and the Urban Renewal Agency. If this is so, why can't I get answers to the questions posed?"

The questions:
1. How much money has been paid to Raymond and May & Associates since the very conception of Urban Renewal here in our city to the present day? What are the costs anticipated for this firm from the present day?

2. What is the weekly payroll or pay period total payroll for all employed with Urban Renewal here in Kingston? How much help is employed by the Urban Renewal Agency?

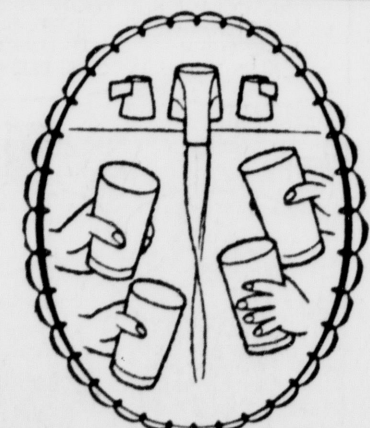

3. What was the actual demolition bid?

4. May any parcel of property that was in the original bid for demolition be withdrawn and if so what would the amount be deducted from the original bid?

The Taxpayers in Kingston as you know are responsible for one-eighth of the costs of Urban Renewal. We can't afford to play cat and mouse with such possibilities confronting us. I explicitly mean the tight money market that Mr. Hemphill spoke of last week as far as a developer is concerned.

In closing I might add Frank that after our telephone conversation on June 11, 1966 I have tried to see Mr. Hemphill on two occasions this week but both times he was out of town. I am therefore taking this opportunity of writing you a personal letter to get results. If they are not forth coming I will have to seek further action from the proper authority, perhaps in Washington.

I am certainly hoping to hear from you in the next few days.
Very truly yours,
T. ROBERT GALLO
9th Ward Alderman

On Saturday, June 25th from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. you can be on the inside of this window looking out — it's located at 267 Wall Street.

However, if you're too shy to come in, you can stay outside and peek in thru any one of over 150 panes of glass — but then you'd miss a gift.

Maybe you'd better go in — the people at the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston won't bite — it isn't in their charter from the State Banking Department.

Besides, they'll be on their best behavior. June 25th is their grand opening and they'll be very happy — and so will you, when you visit their beautiful new building.

Meet Miss U.S.A.; Odds Look Good For Big Title

By BILL BYERS

NEW YORK — "You have to be off your rocker not to be excited by the Miss Universe Pageant," said the comely Miss U.S.A., a Hungarian who was born in Denmark.

Maria Remenyi, a stunning 20-year-old who now calls California home (she is majoring in "high energy physics" at Berkeley), considers her odds in winning the pageant are pretty good.

Bigger Things

Bob Banner told TV Scout that he hopes The Summer Music Hall starring John Davidson is not renewed. Banner, who produces the show and who also guides John's career, has this unusual wish because he has other—and bigger—things in mind for the talented young singer.

Although there were tears in her eyes when she was named Miss U.S.A., Maria wasn't overwhelmed with surprise. As a student of the new math, she had carefully calculated her odds in the Miami contest and was convinced she would win or come very close.

"I can't say exactly how I will do this time. I haven't seen the rest of the girls (70 nations will be represented) but it seems highly likely that I will be in the final 15," she said.

Viewers who want to place their bets now will be able to see how accurate Maria is when CBS-TV telecasts the Miss Universe sweepstakes July 16.

Poised and confident ever since she and her family left Budapest after the Hungarian uprising 10 years ago, Maria doesn't consider herself a beauty queen. She is in the contest for the "fun" and for the "money."

As Miss U.S.A., she won $10,000 in prizes and if she gets the Big Title she'll get an additional $20,000—enough to study physics for years and years.

A junior at the University of California, Maria is taking a year off from school, touting the pageant, and seeing her adopted country. There are no plans for a future as an actress or as a model.

"The only movie star I ever went for was Clark Gable—but he is dead now," she will say.

"There have been no favorite actresses. I feel more comfortable around physicists and mathematicians."

While in New York, a few gentlemen tried to calculate her measurements. Bets were placed and lost.

"You don't need the new math for THAT," said Maria. "Anyway you figure it, they add up the same. They also look the same." Miss U.S.A.'s totals are: 35-23-35. Height: 5 feet 6. Weight: 118 lbs.

No Stills Here

They are telling the story about the television company filming on location in Tennessee. The producer wanted some still photographs, so he asked the cast to line up so "we can get some stills." A native, hearing this, said, "Not a still for miles 'round here. But I got a bottle iffen you want a pull on it."

John Gary Surfaces With His Own Show for Summer Video Run

By DON ROYAL

Not long ago an unknown named John Gary was singing for his supper at a p.c.y in New York City while trying one last time to get a career started. He was almost broke. That was three years ago.

This summer — on Wednesday, June 22 — Gary will present the premiere broadcast of The John Gary Show, a 12-week series in color, replacing The Danny Kaye Show for the summer on CBS-TV.

GARY WILL BE a television star with his own series, which will add to his current status of recording star, prime attraction in night clubs and entertainment rooms and on the concert circuit.

The John Gary Show is to offer musical variety, with guest stars including Danny Kaye, Chad and Jeremy, Vikki Carr, Liberace, Leslie Uggams, the King Sisters, Roger Williams, Faron Taylor, Frank Gorshin, Eddy Arnold, Judy Armstrong and the Smothers Brothers, among others.

Gary is already familiar to viewers of Kaye's program through a dozen or more guest appearances the past two seasons, and Kaye's producing company is behind Gary's program.

Reaching that plateau was not an easy road for Gary. In fact, a childish impulse years before nearly denied him a long enough life to become a singer; he jumped off a raft on a lake and nearly drowned.

As tenacious in adversity as a youngster as he was to be years later as an adult reaching for a career, he mastered swimming after the near-fatal accident. Today he holds two world records for underwater endurance.

GARY RECALLS near-tragedy: "I was 8 years old and wanted to learn to swim. I jumped off a raft in the middle of the lake. My leg caught on a nail, and was badly mangled."

Doctors told Gary's parents that he might never walk properly again. But the doctors were too pessimistic; Gary grew up with a healthy leg and his interest in swimming after that first appalling experience became a major part of his life.

Gary today is part owner of a diving equipment company in Chicago, and is the inventor of an underwater propellant device called the "Aqua-Peller," on which he has applied for a patent.

A few years ago, during the early part of his career as an entertainer, Gary starred on his own television show on a New Orleans station. When it faltered, Gary went into an underwater salvage business which he organized with a number of friends, all professional divers.

His reputation as a civilian frogman eventually led to his participation in a major U.S. Air Force test in connection with weightlessness. Under Air Force supervision, Gary went underwater in a swimming pool in Indianapolis with standard SCUBA equipment strapped to his back.

Gary says "Just before I submerged, I vowed I would break the current fresh-water submergence record of 62 hours. I told myself that they would have to drag me out unconscious before I gave up."

Gary stayed under for 78 hours and 45 minutes. The Air Force observers brought him up as he became—at the end of the test—disoriented and exhilarated in a dangerous condition which can be fatal to SCUBA divers and to astronauts in their respective environments.

Gary's fresh-water submergence endurance record still stands. In 1961, Gary remained submerged in salt water for 41 hours, 1 minute; this record is still intact, too.

His underwater swimming has helped his breath control as a singer.

GARY'S RANGE is three octaves, which is invaluable to a singer. His serious interest in swimming and underwater adventure have served him well.

JOHN GARY brings his personable talents and vocal skills to bear in conducting The John Gary Show, summertime fare replacing the Danny Kay Show for the sizzling months, over CBS-TV each Wednesday evening.

Gary was born — appropriately—in Watertown, New York, but he lived and worked in New Orleans as a child and a young adult, and considers that city his home town. His career actually began when, as a 9-year-old boy soprano, he won a three-year scholarship at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City. By the time he was 12, young Gary was appearing on USO shows regularly, and at 14 he embarked on a cross-country concert tour.

The late Hedda Hopper spotted young Gary during a singing engagement and referred him to several motion-picture producers. Gary's first film role was in Jimmy Cagney's "Time Of Your Life" as a newsboy.

During this time, John Gary also landed a solo spot in Ken Murray's "Blackouts" revue, which ran for a number of years in Hollywood. It was in this show that the nightmare of all singers became a reality for young Gary: he lost his voice one night—on stage.

SHOW BUSINESS ended for him, Gary returned to a normal schoolboy's life and finished his secondary school studies at Hollywood High School. After graduation — still without a singing voice—he enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps.

"You'd certainly never expect Marine Corps duty to help a man with a singing career," says Gary. "I'd been in about a year and had not sung a note, nor even tried, since the experience in the Blackouts. But one Sunday, on maneuvers, I decided to give singing another try. I liked the sound of the voice, so I kept singing during those maneuvers. And believe me, singing on Marine maneuvers isn't easy."

After leaving the Marines, Gary kicked around a while as a student actor — studying with Ruth Woods, as a serious student of folk music under the guidance of folk authority Robert MacGimsey, and as student of art, studying sculpture at the tiOs Art Institute, Los Angeles.

Eventually a series of singing appearances on local television and network television programs — Lawrence Welk and Jack Paar's late-night program—brought him to the attention of Don McNeill, Chicago's long-running "Breakfast Club" radio star, who signed him as replacement for another singer. Gary stayed with the program for a year and a half.

In late 1962 Gary took stock of his career to date, and decided he either wanted to make the top ranks as a singer or get out of the business altogether. He traveled to New York and gave himself six months to make good.

He was beginning his sixth month in the city, and was in arrears in his rent payments to the YMCA when he was invited to a private party one night.

Gary sang and two people—Richard Lablow, a show-business attorney, and Constance Hope, a press agent—were impressed enough to contact a recording company vice president. The recording executive auditioned Gary, then said: "Where have you been all these years?" Gary was signed to a recording contract, and his career has been building ever since.

IF PRESSURES of a weekly television show get to Gary this summer, he will be close enough to Southern California's big outdoors to engage in some quiet relaxation with a bow and arrow.

Besides being an expert in the water, Gary is a sharpshooter with bow and arrow. He once placed in national competition in archery and another time he outshot one America's finest pistol shots in a target competition.

Chances are, however, Gary will just relax at his new home above Hollywood's Sunset Strip, away from it all at the bottom of his swimming pool. That will be where his wife, the former Lois McDonnell, and four children or his writers, Saul Ilson and Ernest Chambers, can find him. He'll be easier for them to find than Danny Kaye was.

As writers for Danny Kaye, Ilson and Chambers used to search the skies over Los Angeles; that's where Kaye escapes from show pressures, piloting a 600-mph. jet.

Joe Pyne Lineup For June 19

"The Joe Pyne Show," Sunday, June 19 from 11 p. m.-1 a. m. over WNEW-TV (Channel 5) will feature the following guests:

Mrs. Jean Mayo, secretary of the "Timothy Leary * Defense Fund," who will voice her firm opposition to recent legislation in California and Nevada restricting the use of the drug LSD in other than medical experiments.

Jerome Lloyd who will explain why he refused ordination in the Roman Catholic Church after studying extensively for the priesthood.

Patty Newman and Joyce Wenger, two housewives, both of whom have written the book "Pass The Poverty, Please."

They will discuss their satirical attack on the Poverty Program. Voicing complaints from the beef box will be Leon Powell, who is unalterably opposed to the present judicial system; Felix Cola, who maintains that too many political candidates today are phony; and Miss Ava Berner who advocates what she calls "Abilitism" as opposed to an ethical-religious movement known as "Scientology."

BONITA GRANVILLE WRATHER WITH LASSIE

Meet Bonita Granville Wrather

Lassie's Best Press Agent

HOLLYWOOD — No one is kidding when the name of Bonita Granville Wrather flashes on the screen as associate producer of the long-running Lassie series on Television.

There is an office with her name on the door at the studio where the show is filmed. She keeps regular office hours.

In collaboration with Producer Robert Golden, she works on scripts, casting and wardrobe. She reads the show's fan mail and studies the audience rating charts as avidly as anyone on Madison Avenue.

She has made promotional tours for the show and, on occasion, she has played roles in support of Lassie.

"I just can't stand to be idle," explains Bonita, the wife of multi-millionaire Jack Wrather (owner of the show), mother of two teen-age Wrathers and a prominent leader in Southern California social life.

Bonita, in fact, combines still another job with her associate producer chores. She's the best press agent Lassie ever had.

Just listen as she enthuses about six Lassie shows for next fall which have been filmed on southern locations outside of New Orleans, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Williamsburg, Asheville and St. Louis.

"We've never filmed this many shows on location at one crack," she says, "but we're after wider scope now that we're in color. We're no longer just a film show, you see. We're doing up-lifting subjects and our audience has changed. We have a fantastic adult following even among young marrieds without children."

"We're always changing, always experimenting. We were the first to do a three part show, then a five part show, and we were the first to do a regular series show without one word of dialogue."

She paused for a bite of her luncheon sandwich, then went on:

"That was funny really. I gave an interview to a magazine writer about this particular no dialogue show and I guess he didn't believe me. Six hours later he telephoned me—it was the longest double take on record—to ask me, 'Bonita, you are going to have narration, of course.' I had to explain it again—not one word of dialogue and NO narration."

The show also gave Bonita a fan letter she'll never forget.

"It was from the mother of a 6-year-old deaf girl. She never watched television because of her deafness but her mother read about our no dialogue show. She wrote: 'My daughter sat there watching Lassie with a great big smile on her face—and great big tears in her eyes.'"

As Bonita says, "We may not get the most fan mail, but when we do it's beautiful."

Back on Soap Opera

Actor Ed Bryce has a long record as Bill Bauer in the CBS-TV soap opera The Guiding Light, even though he was missing from the show for two years. He began in the role in 1959. Four years later the character was sent on a "trip" while Ed tried his hand at other acting assignments. Last year, the character returned from his "trip," and Ed returned to the soap opera world.

TV Questions & Answers

ALL ABOUT LORNE—Tell us about Lorne Greene. How old is he? How many children does he have?—Betty Lange, Rawena, Tex.

The Bonanza star, native of Ottawa, Canada, was a radio newscaster on CBC in the early 1940s before he took up acting. He appeared on Broadway and in such films as "The Silver Chalice" and "Peyton Place." He has been Ben Cartwright since 1959.

Married to the former actress Nancy Deale he is the father of college-age twins, Linda and Chuck, by a previous marriage. The actor is mum about his age but it's figured he is in his early 50s.

CANDID DAD — How many children does Allen Funt have?—Room Larson, Bynum, Mont.

The Candid Camera host has three children by his first wife. His present spouse is expecting a baby in December.

ON THE MOVE — Where is the show Where the Action Is filmed?—Karen Ripley, Jackson, Mich.

The syndicated pop music series is filmed throughout the country in various cities.

COMIC STAR — Who is going to play the lead in the new fall ABC-TV series Green Hornet? — S.D.H., Norfolk, Va.

Van Williams will be the Hornet. Bruce Lee will be his Oriental sidekick, Cato. Williams was previously active on Surfside 6 and The Tycoon. This is Lee's first series.

BRING 'EM BACK — Who may I write to plead to keep Secret Agent on the air next fall? — Mrs. Dorothy F. Sanford, Taftville, Conn.

Write Mike Dann, charge of CBS-TV programming, at 51 West 52nd Street New York. But it's too late for fall, since the new schedule is locked in.

DICK'S EXIT — What's the real reason why The Dick Van Dyke Show was cancelled next season? — Laura E. Kinsey, St. Petersburg, Fla.

After five years, its star decided he wanted to concentrate on movie work. One of CBS-TV's most popular shows, the network wanted it to continue for another year but Dick reluctantly said, "no."

CONTRACTS RENEWED — Thanks for listing the new fall shows. Now tell us the lucky old shows that are returning. — Charles J. Cowell, Peoria, Ill.

The veterans back for another year in prime time are: Sundays — Walt Disney, Bonanza, Andy

LAST CAUSE — Why doesn't Jack Larson get the credit and mail on Candid? Also a mail box address.—Beverly Jackson, Arlington, Va.

A lot of people agree with you. But not the producers of the war series. Larson, who plays Billy, asked for more money and the producers want to give it to him. He won't be back next fall.

NOON LIGHTING — Why do so many soap opera actors appear in TV commercials? Is the pay on soaps so low they must get work elsewhere?—Mrs. Robert J. Keenan Jr., St. Paul, Minn.

Most soaps are produced in New York where most of the commercials are cast. Most actors like to work and many supplement their incomes by going the Madison Avenue route. Since most nighttime series are produced in Hollywood those actors find it more difficult to do commercials. Although soaps pay their actors well (it depends on their contracts) lucky ones sometimes can make as much as $100,000 per year extra by doing commercials.

DINNER IS SERVED — What's Sebastian Cabot's new series called? — Frank Nelson, Norfolk, Va.

He will co-star next season with Brian Keith in a new CBS-TV comedy series called Fanny Annair. Cabot will play a butler.

No. He and his wife Eve were divorced some years ago. Neither has remarried.

SINGLE LADY — Is Dorothy Malone married? Where may I write her? — D.J.M., Norfolk, Va.

Claude Rains Struts at 76

BY DICK KLEINER

Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — I am full of admiration for Claude Rains these days. I have a letter of admiration from him, written from his home in Sandwich, N. H., in which he tells about being very ill for five months, with an operation involved. And then he writes: "I'm beginning to strut now, and it's possible I may go to India in August for a movie."
Claude Rains is 76—at least, that's the figure in The World Almanac. And you have to be a pretty good man to strut at 76.

This is the awkward time of year for interviewing television personalities. It's a bit too early to see next fall's hopefuls, and last year's lame ducks are inclined to be bitter.

John Ericson, who was Honey West's partner in crime fighting, isn't as bitter as some, but he isn't what you would call sugarsweet, either.

"The trouble with show business today," Ericson says, "is that nobody has any guts. Everybody's scared to try anything new and different."

He thinks one prime reason for Honey West's lack of success was a breakdown in communications between the actors and the creative staff and the network.

"You've heard of the Great Wall of China?" he says. "Well, there's a Great Wall around the networks, too. We were told that the network didn't want any sex on Honey West — everything had to be neuter, neuter, neuter — and Anne (Francis) and I wanted to find out why. But we couldn't get to see anybody at the network to talk about it."

He wants to do another series, maybe next year, but this time without a wall.

Stephen Boyd says costume drama is much harder than playing modern parts.

"Try walking down a street someday," he says, "and make believe you're a Roman. You have to walk like a Roman, talk like a Roman and act like a Roman. It's much harder than just playing a modern man — then, all you have to do is act, but you don't have to think about your walk or your costume or your speech."

NOTABLES' QUOTABLES

"Bob Dylan is a congenital amnesiac. He cannot or will not remember anything before the day when Bob Zimmerman became Bob Dylan. He's rootless and rootless people worry me." — Theodore Bikel.

"The only reason for a man to get married is to have children." — Jacques Bergerac.

"It is important to spend money when you need to, but it is equally important not to spend it when you don't need to. Many directors have a $7-million budget, and wind up spending $12-million." — Director Robert Gist.

"The only thing about The Fugitive that bothers me is that the whole thing is on my shoulders. By the very nature of our story, you can't have a friend of the Fugitive or a son of the Fugitive to take some of the burden." — David Janssen.

Instant Video, Backus Style

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD — Comes now the first "instant" television series — CBS-TV's Continental Showcase, telecast in the Saturday night Jackie Gleason spot.

But Jim Backus isn't knocking it, see.

The 14-week variety show summer replacement on which he plays host gave him a pleasant three-week trip to Munich, Germany, and, more importantly, temporary escape from Gilligan's Island.

But even before the show's debut, Jim was back on the island filming next year's episodes. It wasn't just the jet age, however, which made it possible for Jim to host a 14-week, one-hour series, 6800 miles from home in 21 days.

"It was an instant series for me," Jim grinned as he sat beneath a palm tree on the Gilligan's Island set. "And," he added, "it was pretty fantastic in the doing. All of the acts were already on film when I arrived in Munich. I was told they had 100 hours of film, some of which has been seen before on European television."

"So for three weeks we just filmed scenes of me opening and closing the show."

The series features top European variety show stars, some never before seen in the United States. "One act really knocked me out," Jim reported. "They are billed as Esther and Abie—the Sonny and Chef of Israel. You just won't believe them, they sing American folk songs in Hebrew."

You won't believe the way Jim is introduced as host on the show, either. "They went way out. For one show I'm at the bottom of an empty swimming pool. In another I'm sitting with a beautiful doll in the back seat of a limousine. She's in an evening gown and I'm in a dress suit but barefoot. Then the camera pulls back and you see that the car is a wreck in a junk yard."

CBS surrounded Jim with six gorgeous European models in all of his introductions (the Gleason influence) and on one show he arches an eyebrow and turns to the camera to quip:

JIM BACKUS

"Honest Henny (Mrs. Backus) I had nothing to do with this casting."

Henny did not accompany him to Munich.

"She refuses to fly," he explains. "It would have taken her four years to make the trip from Hollywood to Munich."

Jim's scenes were filmed at the old Bavarian film studio just outside Munich, which escaped World War II damage. "I'm writing a nasty letter to Eisenhower," Jim laughs. "The studio has the world's worst commissary. Imagine, we demolished Munich and left this commissary."

Embarrassing Indeed

Ed Ames, who plays Mingo on NBC-TV's Daniel Boone, has a good sense of humor and doesn't mind laughing at himself. One of his more embarrassing moments, he says, came when he fell off a horse that was standing still. "That's not easy to do. It was my fault, because someone saddled the horse for me and I didn't think to check the cinch, which was loose. So down I went. What made it worse, my kids were watching. I had to turn away from them because I didn't want them to see me cry."

Splitville in Peyton Place

By BILL BYERS

NEW YORK--Ryan O'Neal says he beat the rap on Peyton Place only to end up with a broken marriage.

"Yes, I'm going to divorce my wife. I think it is the only way we can become friends again," said the 22-year-old actor who was in town to see friends and in general to clean the cobwebs out of his head.

It was the first break he had taken from his role as Rodney Harrington, recently cleared of a murder charge, on the thrice-weekly ABC-TV nighttime soap opera.

It was also the first time he had been away from California since he announced the separation from his wife, actress Joanna Moore, mother of their two children—Tatum, 2½, and Griffin, 1½.

Tense, volatile, blond and energetic, O'Neal said he was secretary to gossip he wasn't here to especially the discotheques. Coning the town from top to bottom, swing with co-star Barbara Parkins, who is on a promotion tour of South America with another Peyton Place regular, Ed Nelson.

"The wonderful thing about New York is that few people recognize me. Gosh, I went to Mexico City once and the fans almost tore me apart. They love the show down there and the actor who dubs my voice in Spanish makes Rod sound like a wild Latin lover," said the actor excitedly. "I've always tried to underplay Rod."

In Latin America the program is known as "La Caldera del Diablo," which translates into "The Devil's Cauldron." O'Neal thinks the title is pretty wild, too.

After two years with the series, and nearly 250 episodes, the actor says he isn't kidding when he says he still enjoys playing Rod.

"Let's put it this way: I haven't seen anything else I'd rather do. I'm much better off where I am and I plan to stay on the series until they no longer have any use for me," said O'Neal. "There have been no exciting film offers — just those lousy ski bum pictures."

The actor added he wasn't unnered that his Peyton Place sweetheart Mia Farrow was leaving the show for "good film offers." At the moment he is excited by her replacement, Lee Taylor Young, who will play a character different from Allison MacKenzie.

"Of course, Rod will fall in love with her," said O'Neal with a matter-of-fact air. "Eventually, I get to all the girls."

Nanette Answers

If viewers are really sharp when "The Girl Nobody Knows," a film being made for NBC-TV's movie series, is shown next season, they will spot Nanette Fabray playing a telephone operator. Her husband, Randal MacDougall, is producing the film, and Nan has appeared in every picture he has written or produced. With wild make-up to prevent her being recognized, she has played a scrub-woman, a beatnik and a corpse.

New 'Bonanza' Series Already Under Cameras

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mean-

while, back at Ponderosa — They're already at work on the 1966-67 season of "Bonanza," which has proven its name for NBC, its sponsor, producers and stars. Those indomitable Cartwrights are once more at home on the range — Lorne Greene ever the father image, Dan Blocker fat and sassy, and Mike Landon the sex symbol, though slightly gray-haired.

Little Joe gray-haired? Yes, it's true, though the aging process has set in early. Otherwise Mike Landon remains the picture of youthful vigor, thanks to his daily sessions in the Paramount Studio gym while others are feeding in the commissary.

Very Confident

Landon, like his fellow Cartwrights, exudes confidence about the coming season.

The actor reflected on the number of opposition shows that have hit the boneyard and commented: "The best opposition we've had has been the feature movies."

ABC will once again be pitting the features against "Bonanza." The color Western will be offering more of its same formula in the series' eighth year.

"We're not planning anything new," commented Landon. "There may be more two-parters, which I don't entirely approve of. Experience has shown that the ratings suffer when we do them."

"Guest stars? I don't think we'll be using too many — unless the ratings drop. But experience has also proved that guest stars don't help the rating to any degree. Of course, if Paul Newman was available —" Landon and his fellow stars have signed up for another five years of "Bonanza," after which they should be able to buy the State of Colorado. Mike admittedly enjoys the money, and he is content with the work as well.

"Acting is a job, just as being an engineer or doctor is a job," he reasoned. "There is a certain amount of routine in doing a series, but there is also a creative aspect of helping with scripts and writing an occasional one yourself."

Old Skipper Show
Daily on W-Ten

Joseph Belz of the Capital District Muscular Dystrophy Association, announced this week that the 1966 MD Carnival fund raising campaign is now underway on Channel Ten's "Old Skipper" show (weekdays at 4:30 p. m.) The annual project, designed to raise much needed research funds, has been an astounding success in years past. The project is unique in that youngsters themselves collect and raise money by means of a neighborhood carnival. Special MD Carnival kits are made available through the "Old Skipper" show and youngsters are urged to set up such midway attractions as The Penny Pitch, Ring a Duck and a Fortune Telling Booth.

Muscular Dystrophy is a crippling disease which affects the boy's muscular co-ordination and destroys its muscle tissues. The most heart rending aspect of MD is that its victims are usually youngsters. Progress is slow and costly and monies are needed not only for continued research, but also for the therapy desperately essential to enable a child to live and grow into a useful and enterprising adult despite the handicap.

The 1966 MD Carnival campaign will run into early August and throughout the project the Old Skipper will encourage the viewers to send in for the special carnival kits, and offer useful suggestions about setting up and promoting the neighborhood project.

Every youngster who participates in the Carnival, gets a personal award certificate signed by Jerry Lewis, National Campaign Manager for MD and by the Old Skipper; but even more important, the kids have a chance to take on a responsibility to which they can apply their own initiative, imagination and endeavor. The basic reward is the warm intangible feeling that comes from helping.
